

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

BOOK REVIEWS.

All book reviews are by the Editor-in-Chief unless otherwise expressly stated.

Annotated Cases, American and English—Containing the Important Cases Selected from the Current American, Canadian and English Reports, thoroughly Annotated. Editors, William M. McKinney and H. Noyes Greene. Ann. Cas. 1917E. Edward Thompson Company, Northport, Long Island, New York, 1917. Bancroft-Whitney Company, San Francisco. 1917.

We find in the present volume three Virginia cases admirably annotated—they being Face v. Cherry, 111 Va. 41; Tanner v. Culpeper Construction Company, 117 Va. 154; and Ratcliffe v. Walker, 117 Va. 569. We think it is to be very much desired that in these admirable reports there should be somewhere in each volume a list of the states showing the cases reported from each individual state and we are satisfied that such an amendment could be made with very little trouble. It would certainly be a great help to any one examining the books.

Amongst other admirable notes is one on page 58 as to the meaning of the words "All Property" as used in Instruments, Statutes, etc., other than Will. On page 121, as to the Conflict between Presumption of the Identity of Person from Identity of Name and Another Presumption. In line with the Virginia case annotated, heretofore referred to is the case of Kleist v. Breitung, etc., on page 1014, which is of interest in regard to the Liability of Parent or Guardian for Alienation of Affections. This case is on all fours with Ratcliffe & Walker, although the facts in the case required a different decision. Automobile owners will be interested in the note on page 588 in regard to the Construction of a Statute Requiring Person Operating Automobile to Give Name and Address to Person Injured. On page 888 is a note which seems somewhat novel to the average Virginia lawyer, as to the Right of Appellate Court upon Granting Another Trial to Limit Issues to be Tried by Jury. We are surprised to find out how much law there is on this subject which we thought too plain for argument.